

Eric Boles Biography

Eric Boles' high energy and powerful keynote presentations have impacted some of the most recognized audiences and organizations around the globe. Recent clients include IBM, Nordstrom, Dunkin Donuts, Northwestern Mutual, Michelin, Sonic, Subway, Zebra Technologies, AXA, Medtronic, Kohl's, San Diego Gas & Electric, Motion Industries, Aviva, Southeastern Grocers, and Boys & Girls Clubs of America. He is also the author of a new book entitled "Moving to Great...Unleashing Your Best in Life and Work".

With his vast experience in corporate boardrooms and as an executive coach and consultant, Eric brings razor-sharp insights and strategies that he has seen really work. Eric takes pride in customizing every presentation around the client's needs, goals, business issues, and desired outcomes. His perspectives on Managing and Leading Change, Peak Performance, Cultural Transformation, Team Dynamics, and Overcoming Complacency are laced with practical tools and insights that can be applied both professionally and personally.

Prior to becoming a sought-after speaker and consultant, Eric was mentored by numerous corporate leaders and performance experts. He also learned many principles of peak performance, team dynamics and leadership from his experience while playing in the National Football League for the Green Bay Packers and New York Jets.

Eric is also a committed father and husband and community leader in the Seattle / Tacoma area. He gives back to his community in numerous ways and is married to his wife Cindy for over 25 years and they have two daughters.